RIVERS ARE SWELLED

Two Small Towns in River
Valley Inundated by Flood Water

LAKE CITY, Ark.—(P)—Two men, residing at Oak Donnick on the Saint Francis river, south of here have been missing since last Friday when they left home in a motor boat.

John Hall and Arthur Madison, a river man, left to obtain a barge with which to move Madison's family and household goods to keep them from floating into the river.

Searching parties have been organized.

Virtually all of the northeast Arkansas rivers, swelled by recent rains, are in flood stages Monday.

The towns of Lester and Caraway, near here are inundated, but no alarm is felt here as a new levee built on the west side of the river is expected to hold.

Hundreds are ready to abandon their homes around Marked Tree as the Saint Francis rises steadily with its backwaters overflowing the low lands all the way from the Missouri line.

Highway Auditors Retain Engineers

John R. Fordyce and Clifford Older to Check on Construction

Col. John R. Fordyce of Hot Springs and Clifford Older of Chicago, president of the engineering firm of Consoer, Older and Quinlan, were selected Saturday by the state highway audit commission to check construction projects, materials and equipment in connection with the five-year audit of the state Highway Department now in progress.

The selection was made after the commission had considered proposals submitted by about 18 engineers and engineering firms.

Terms of the contract will not be made public until it is drawn up and formally executed at the next meeting of the commission, February 12, Chairman W. J. Waggoner said.

Engineering test work will be started February 10, however, and this phase of the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, it was said.

Colonel Fordyce and Mr. Older said they will employ Arkansas engineers to assist in doing the necessary field work. Mr. Older was accompanied during negotiations with the commission by Arthur W. Consoer, vice president and general manager of the Chicago firm. Mr. Older will return to Little Rock about February 10 and will give his personal attention to the test work, sharing the work and responsibility equally with Colonel Fordyce, it was said.

They were employed on a per diem basis and the testing work can be discontinued at the will of the Audit Commission and the auditing firm, A. M. Pullen & Co., of Richmond, Va.

Chairman Waggoner said hearings to take testimony in connection with the audit and Highway Department operations probably will begin the latter part of February.

Mr. Older was state highway engineer of Illinois for seven years, from 1917 to 1924, and before that was connected with the engineering departments of the Pennsylvania, Wabash and Chicago and Alton railroads for several years.

Colonel Fordyce was a member of the state Highway Commission during the late Governor McRae's first administration and was consulting engineer for the department during his second term and during a part of former Governor Tom J. Terral's administration.

Early Ruling on Cotton Law Asked

Texas Farmers Want Status Decided Within Next 30 Days

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Saint Valentine's Day (February 14) being cotton planting day for some Texas farmers—those residing near the Gulf coast—time for a decision on what to do about the Texas cotton acreage reduction law is short.

Judge W. C. Davis of the 85th Judicial district, who presided last week at Franklin over trial of a test case, which, ultimately, will determine genuineness of the cotton ban statute said he would announce a decision next Friday.

Gov. R. S. Sterling last week received additional letters requesting that he call an extraordinary session of the legislature to repeal the law, enacted at a special session called specifically for that purpose last September.

Governor Sterling has said that he would not convene a special session of the legislature to revoke the cotton acreage reduction law. He said that even though the law were not adopted by other cotton growing states it should be a good thing for Texas.

Beaten to Death By Band of Thugs

Dance Hall Patron Slain as Hoodlums Fight Off Crowd

DETROIT, Mich.—(AP)—A dozen thugs who beat and kicked Noel W. English to death early Sunday in the crowded Merry Gardens ball room, attacking with fists and knives other dancers in the hall who attempted a rescue, were sought by police Sunday afternoon.

The slayers escaped before police arrived and locked the approximately 1,000 dancers in the ball room for questioning.

Investigators said the motive for the killing was not clear. Theories ranged from rivalry between gangs to sudden enmity engendered by English's efforts to stop a group of men who were pushing out of the dance floor.

English died of a fractured neck which witnesses said resulted from a kick. Several shots were fired, but no one was wounded. Scores of dancers received minor injuries.

Seven persons were held for investigation.

High Chinese Officials Resign

Shanghai Maintains Place as Center of Controversy; League Council Reconvenes at Geneva to Consider Manchurian Question Postponed Last Month

SHANGHAI.—(AP)—Sun Fo, president of Executive Yuan, which is a post corresponding to the Premier of China, resigned Monday because the government declined to accept his policy of vigorous action against Japan.

Foreign Minister Eugene Chen, also resigned for similar reasons. Meanwhile Shanghai maintained its place as the center of the Sino-Japanese controversy.

A conference between the Japanese

Consul General and the mayor of the Chinese city led to a temporary truce which served momentarily at least to keep seventeen hundred Japanese military of the international settlement, a French concession and Chinese territory.

The league council reconvened at Geneva to take up the Manchurian question, where it left off last month but the proffered resignation of Secretary General Sir Eric Drummond delayed its deliberations.

Woman Is Found Slain Near Detroit

Identification Attempted; Farmer Hears Shot in Woods

DETROIT.—(AP)—A bullet hole behind the left ear, the body of a well dressed young woman was found Sunday in an automobile abandoned in a clump of woods behind the Ford airport in Dearborn, a suburb. The car, a small sedan, bore Illinois license plates. There was no evidence the woman had been attacked.

A label in her black cloth coat bore the name "Lester Brothers Co." but no address. There was nothing else in the car to aid in identifying the woman. The scene of the slaying, East Snow street and Pelham road, is only a short distance from U. S. 112, a much traveled Chicago-Detroit highway.

An attractive blonde, the woman was about 20 years old, five feet, seven inches tall and weighed about 120 pounds. Her clothing included a red silk dress, light tan stockings, black shoes and a small white april of good texture. No hat, purse or jewelry were found in the car.

Detectives said her attire indicated she had left a party to accompany some one in the automobile. Peter Young, a farmer, told officers he had heard a shot at about 5 a. m., and shortly afterward saw two men running from the woods.

Light Plant Cuts Taxes For Benton

Municipal Plant Enables Escape From Funding Debt Tax

BENTON.—It appears that local taxpayers are going to be in a class by themselves as a result of announcements being made by city officials in regard to taxes to be collected this year.

Two reductions in city taxes are being made. The board of commissioners for several years has been paying for a part of the interest and principal payments due on the water district, and the board now announces that the district will be able to make all payments this year, thus relieving the taxpayers of payment of any water tax.

The electric light improvement district for several years has been paying out of the earnings of the plant all bond and interest charges and will do so again this year.

The other tax reduction for this year is being made by the city council, which has sufficient funds to pay principal and interest charges on the city's debt, thus relieving taxpayers of the one-mill funding tax for this year.

A still more hopeful sign for the future is that the earning of the light plant and water district will not only take care of all district payments due, but may be sufficient to pay all city government expenses and relieve taxpayers of payment of the general city tax of five mills, and it is expected that this may be done by 1934.

Outlook Improves For Cotton Sales

Prices Firm During Past Week—Demand Favors U. S. A.

MEMPHIS.—(U. S. Department of Agriculture)—The cotton market during the period January 16 to 22 was steady, with price fluctuations narrow. Quotations January 22 were practically unchanged compared with those January 15.

Demand for raw cotton was said to have been somewhat better during the past week with inquiries covering both short and long staple cottons, particularly in the lower and low grade cottons. The asking basis by sellers was said to have continued firm and a good volume of business was said to have been done in the low grades at flat prices rather than a basis.

Average price middling 7-8 inch as compiled from the quotations of the ten designated spot markets January 22nd 5.23c compared with 6.25c January 15th and 5.50c a year ago.

Reported sales of spot cotton by the ten markets for the past week amounted to 161,209 bales, compared with 177,084 the week before and 63,243 for the like week the year before.

A comparison of American and Indian cotton prices at Liverpool shows that Indian continues to become more expensive relative to American. On January 8 the average price of three types of Indian cotton averaged 94.6 per cent as much as the average of American middling and low middling whereas on December 11th they averaged 92.6 per cent.

Exports continue to gain over those of the season before and to January 22 this season amounted to about 4,800,000 bales compared with about 4,400,000 a year ago for the corresponding period.

According to the Weather Bureau the week ending January 19 as regards abnormal warmth was most unusual. Not only were temperatures experienced higher than ever known before in mid-winter but the weekly averages were equally outstanding for unseasonable mildness.

Kidnapers Release Victim at Denver

'Snatchers' Tell Baking Co. Official He Must Send Them $50,000

DENVER, Colo.—(P)—After five days of captivity, a young man who was kept bound and blindfolded in a mountain cabin, Benjamin P. Bower, kidnaped Denver baking official, was released from an automobile in West Denver Sunday.

His freedom, he said was granted on a promise to pay the $50,000 ransom demanded last Tuesday night when two men invaded his home and carried him away. No money, he said, has been paid.

Clutching two strips of adhesive in his hand, Bower was found by two youths early Sunday morning in a dark street near the bakery, of which he is manager. "Telling them who he was, Bower asked to be led to telephone from which he called the bakery. Police were called at once and he was taken to headquarters.

The strips of tape, he said, had been over his eyes for the five days he was a captive, except a few moments when he wrote a note to his wife pleading that she pay the $50,000 ransom.

"I'll keep them as souvenirs," he told Police Chief Albert T. Clark, who, since Tuesday night has directed the greatest man hunt in Denver's history.

Bower was treated well and fed plentifully on ham and eggs, bread and strawberry jam "and other pretty good food," he said.

It was revealed that Bowers had written a note to his wife but it was not a note which police received and gave to Denver newspapers. Contents of the authentic note were not revealed by police.

"The kidnaping, Bower said, cost him only $4.60 and his Royal Arch Masonic pin.

"I've had that pin 22 years and I asked them not to take it," he said. "Aside from that, I think I've got the better of it. They fed me five days for $4.60."

The kidnapers grew tired of the way things were going and offered a compromise, that he should return and get the money, Bower told Chief Clark. "They asked for $50,000. Where in the name of conscience would I get $50,000? I told them I couldn't."

"They pounded the table and told me I could. They said: 'You can get it from Knight (Stephen Knight, president of the Campbell-Sell Banking Company). Gees, I didn't like that!'"

Wild Recruit Pitcher Says 'Lame' Arm Is Well

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Wally Brush, the "walk-em-or-whiff-em kid," sold to the New York Giants for $10,000 in 1929 and to the Cleveland Indians for $5,000 in 1930, is looking for a job.

He said he was dickering with three big leagues and five AA clubs for his services.

The first game Brush ever pitched for Tampa in the Old Southeastern league tells his story. He struck out 12 and walked 14 men. Few hits were ever made off him.

Winter comes to field and glen,
And the brave youth of the spring
And the song of thrush and wren,
And the tree gay blossoming
Fades before the cruel blast
Into the glories of the past.
All things have their winter time,
Toys lie broken with the years,
Eyes that danced with joys sublime
Sed on life are dimmed with tears,
Youth itself becomes at last
But a memory of the past.
It is well that spring should go,
And that summer blooms should fade,
Well that every joy we know
Must pass onward, undelayed,
For if pleasure could remain,
So could grief and loss and pain,
Not alone do splendors lie
Under winter's shroud of snow,
Every wind has driven by
Many a care and touch of woe,
Where the blasts of winter sweep,
By-gone disappointments sleep.

Indians Return to Bows; Can't Afford Shotguns

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—After 35 years of using the white man's rifle and shotgun, Seminole Indian hunters are going back to the bow and arrow.

Continued inroads of sportsmen on their hunting grounds and fires caused by unusually dry weather, have made the life of the Seminole hunter increasingly difficult the past year.

Cyr Makes No Move to Resist Acting Governor of Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—Alvin O. King, his authority formally recognized by the heads of all subordinate state departments Sunday was acting governor of Louisiana in the absence of Huey P. Long, while police protected state property from possible seizure by Dr. Paul N. Cyr, also claiming the governorship.

Acting Governor King, after the formality of entering the grounds of the executive mansion and capital building, officially notified the custodians of the property and all department heads that he was chief executive pro tempore.

No sign of any supporters of Cyr has been observed and the doctor himself has been resting over Sunday at his home in Jeanerette.

King, recognized by Long before his departure as lieutenant governor and now as a result of the de facto governor's death, claims to be the chief executive. He said that lawyers all over the state had sent him unsolicited opinions assuring him of the legality of his claim to the governor's office. He will sit behind the executive desk Monday for the first time.

AT THE THEATER

Fredric March as Dr. Jekyll, one of the two characters he portrays in Paramount's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"

When Robert Louis Stevenson wrote his famous story of a man's dual personality, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," he fashioned into words-on-paper the stuff of his neurotic dreams. But he never dreamed anything so fantastic as the thing that has actually occurred—the phenomenal success of his narrative in its play-form.

The history of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," the play, is a glamorous as the amazing progress of the theatre itself. Since 1887, this famous drama-romance has been before the public almost continuously, starting with its remarkable debut in the capable hands of Richard Mansfield, onward through the respective heydays of the legitimate, the silent movies and now finally, the talkies, with Fredric March as the exponent of this latter-day play-form in the Paramount production now showing at the Saenger.

Stevenson's biographers tell us that he conceived the story of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" in a dream. He wrote almost continuously for three days, in the febrile zeal that was alike his affliction and his motivating power. He read the completed tale to his wife and his step-son, Lloyd Osbourne. They were enthralled, but Stevenson later lapsed into a different mood, regretted having written the story, and tore it up. He was persuaded to recreate it, and after six weeks of revising and building anew, he sent it to Longman, the British publisher.

Because of its startling theme, Longman hesitated to publish it as a serial in a magazine owned by him, and so put it out in book form as a "stunning shocker."

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" made an unobstructive appearance in the London book stalls during the Christmas season of 1885. It received a cold reception, but the London Times "dis-

NAT SHILKRET and his 35-piece orchestra

For this Chesterfield Program, Mr. Shilkret has assembled and will personally conduct an orchestra of exceptional range and color. Mr. Shilkret's musical background is impressive—with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic, and as organizer and director of the Victor Salon Orchestra, where his arrangements and recordings of lighter music proved immensely popular.

COAST-TO-COAST OVER THE COLUMBIA NETWORK

Six nights a week: 10:30-10:45 (Eastern Standard Time.) The rich baritone of Alex Gray, romantic star of stage and screen... a large and splendidly-balanced orchestra of first rank, drawing from all that is tuneful in today's music. This is one of radio's "high spots."

ALEX GRAY, popular soloist

"How he can sing!" is the universal comment. A rising star of musical comedy stage and screen, and with rare gifts of personality and voice, Mr. Gray's stirring baritone is ideal for radio and for the romantic and colorful ballads which he sings so well. An addition to radio's first-line artists, and an important figure in "Music that Satisfies."
